Palestine Jewish Merchant Marine

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

GENEVA—Plans to develop a large Jewish merchant marine in the Mediterranean with the Palestine Jewish port of Tel Aviv as a base will be taken up in Geneva during the Zionist Congress at a special conference called by the Palestine Maritime League. The plans call for replacement to a certain extent of Italian ships which have been carrying passengers and cargo to Palestine on a large scale and which are now being boycotted by Jews. The conference will be devoted not only to maritime problems but to questions of Jewish aviation.

With Jewish passengers boycotting Italian steamers and with Jewish citrus exporters alone paying more than $5,000,000 to foreign companies this year for shipping fruit abroad, leaders of the Palestine Maritime League, which is supported financially and morally by the Jewish Agency, feel that there are great possibilities for establishment of an efficient Jewish merchant marine of adequate size.

War Possibility Seen

It is estimated that since the World War the Jewish community has spent $130,000,000 for transportation of passengers and goods from and to Palestine, most of which traffic was carried by Italian lines. In recent months alone Palestine Jews spent $15,000,000 for sea transportation. The Jewish leaders sponsoring the establishment of a mercantile marine therefore feel certain of its financial success. The possibility of a world war which should isolate Palestine and produce a food shortage there is also being taken into consideration by those organizing the conference. During last September's war scare the Jewish community of Palestine found itself confronted with a grave problem of assuring an adequate supply of food and raw materials.

In time of peace ships of twenty-seven nations call at Palestine ports, but in wartime, leaders of the maritime league believe, this would not be the case and there exists a danger that in time of crisis Palestine might not even have a small commercial fleet to serve the community's most essential requirements. With these thoughts in mind, the league was founded during the last Zionist Congress in 1937 and will bring forward at the current Congress recommendations for expansion of Jewish navigation and aviation in Palestine.

The league already counts 14,000 members in Palestine. It has a small fleet of merchant ships and a nautical school in Haifa with courses in navigation, mechanics, ship-building and wireless telegraphy. Head of the navigation department is a former British naval captain and Jewish cadets are now undergoing training on British and Jewish steamers, the statement declares. The league also has developed coastal shipping in Palestine. It is taking a census of Jewish seamen in various countries. It is training Jewish aviators in Poland

Land 5 In Jail

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

NEW YORK—Five men were arrested this week when a "Buy Christian" street corner meeting organized by the "Christian Mobilizers" ended in fist-fighting with anti-Semitic demonstrators battling police who attempted to disperse them. A police captain and sergeant were injured in the fighting.

The trouble began when a drunken man began heckling a speaker from the outskirts of the crowd of five hundred. Partisans of the speaker beat the heckler and turned on others who objected to the action. Police patrolling the meeting then ordered it to disperse because of the crowd's unruliness, but the fighting continued for some time. After the five were arrested, the five hundred attending the meeting staged a protest march to the police station, holding an impromptu street meeting which resulted in more fighting and another arrest.

The meeting was one of a series being held by the Christian Mobilizers in the Bronx in an attempt to organize a boycott of Jews. A

Special

GENEVA—Daniel Frisch of Indianapolis has been named a member of the influential political committee of the World Zionist Congress, which opened last Wednesday.

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

GENEVA—Prepared to formulate a program of unrelenting resistance to Britain's Palestine policy, the 21st biennial World Zionist Congress opened Wednesday night in Geneva's Municipal Theater in the presence of several hundred delegates from all parts of the world.

The keynote for a fight against the British White Paper was sounded by Dr. Chaim Weizmann, president of the World Zionist Organization, whose speech, according to advance reports, severely criticized the White Paper and appealed to the civilized world to aid in ameliorating the plight of Jewish refugees by pressing Britain to open Palestine's doors to extensive Jewish immigration.

Meanwhile, the delegates gathered in Geneva are nervous over the growing tension in Europe and are beginning to ask whether Geneva is the right place for such a Congress. They fear that the approximately 150 representatives from Palestine, more than 100 from the United States and several hundred from other countries would be isolated in Switzerland should war break out while the Congress is in session.

Needed at Home

The situation in Palestine would then be particularly precarious since the Mediterranean, which is the route of the Holy Land delegates, would apparently be closed to private navigation, thus leading to the danger that the key leaders of Palestine's Jewish community would be bottled up in Switzerland when they were most needed at home.

Determination to defy Britain's plan for establishment of an independent Palestine state with a one-third Jewish minority was expressed by Palestine delegates. Leading members of the Palestine delegation which represents all sections of the Jewish homeland except the Revisionists, declared it was considered in Palestine that the British policy must fail of achievement in view of the opposition to it being organized by Holy Land Jewry. Confidence was expressed that immigration and land-buying would continue despite British attempts to check these forms of growth of the Jewish homeland.

JERUSALEM—The Hebrew Daily Haboker reports that two labor camps have been erected to start oil boring in the area south of the Dead Sea.

Phi B. D. Plans Rush Week-end
At Lake James Cottage Aug. 26-27

Active members, alumni and guests of Phi Beta Delta Fraternity from over the state will attend the gala rush week-end celebration at Lake James next Saturday and Sunday, August 26 and 27, heralding the opening of Indiana University next month, and climaxing the summer vacation period.

Pat Berger, president of Alpha Theta chapter of Phi Beta Delta, at I. U., who is chairman of the Lake James committee, has planned a week-end of activity, including swimming, golf, tennis, boating and fishing.

A special attraction will be Hal Lieber's Indiana University orchestra. Hal is one of Phi Beta Delta's outstanding members, as well as one of I. U.'s outstanding students. Hal and the band have planned special entertainment for the Phi Beta Delta week-end.

Headquarters for the week-end at Lake James will be the "Rose Hill" cottage, which Phi Beta Delta has acquired.

Jewish Refugees To Give France Plane Squadron

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

NANCY, France—Jewish refugees here have launched a campaign for funds with which to purchase a squadron of warplanes for France as a token of gratitude for providing them with asylum. The drive was opened at a meeting of the newly formed Jewish immigrants committee, of which the honorary presidents include Senators Gaston Roge and Henri Courmault, Deputy Francois Valentin and Rabbi Haguenauer of Nancy.

Broadmoor Style Show
Date Changed to Aug. 31

Announcement has been made of the change in date of the Broadmoor Country Club water show, formerly scheduled for Thursday evening, August 24. The new date is Thursday evening, August 31. Local stores will present their fall fashions at the affair.

SEASONED timber is that which has been processed and made ready for constructive purposes. It is dry and durable; it is not raw or green. When used for fuel, it emits comparatively little smoke.

Perhaps both ideas were in the mind of Dorothy Canfield when she chose the term as the title for her most recent exposition of American democracy. It is a book of unusual merit and treats the Jewish problem as incidental to, though presumably inseparable from, the problem of maintaining in America a bulwark against the Fascism which is born in poverty, feeds upon race prejudice, and thrives upon the typical American love of size and superiority.

A small Vermont academy struggles desperately to make ends meet, to pay teachers salaries and to provide for farm children whose love of learning makes their meager means no obstacle to an education. One of the trustees, who had always opposed the policies of the Principal, leaves the school a million dollars provided, among other things, that the "academy bind itself never to admit to its classes or to give any education to a Jewish student." The campaign which follows revolves around the question whether to accept or reject the proffered million.

"Do you remember we wondered how Louisiana people could have let Huey Long make monkeys of them? The point was that when they were right up against the choice between sticking by democratic principles and letting Fascism get the jump on them in their own lives they didn't have the backbone to hold the fort for American ideas."

"We're Vermonters. We can afford to be Americans. We have nothing to be afraid of; we can afford to stand up for people when they're not given the fair chance our country promises to all."

These sentiments finally convinced the men and women of Winward County, and the bequest was rejected. After the election, the heat and passion of the campaign cooled, everybody accepted the verdict of the majority, and everything went on smoothly as before.

The seasoned timber which constitutes the people of Vermont does not yield to every passing fancy. These sturdy farmers possess a hard common sense. They are not dazzled by the whim of the moment. They are not soft and pliable. They possess a moral durability which will resist every attack upon democracy.

Our safety as Jews is inseparably bound up with the future of democracy. To rail and rant against anti-Semitism is the negative response to a serious situation. Anti-Jewishness is but one element in the larger problem of democracy. Dorothy Canfield does not argue on the basis of Jewish merit or Jewish contributions to America. On the inviolability of the democratic principle does she take her stand.

In the last analysis the question is one of discrimination. Have we the seasoned maturity to choose those values which make permanently for liberty and to eschew those which, no matter how immediately attractive, are bound to lead to the destruction of democracy.

We Jews are an old and experienced people. We know by bitter experience the consequences of compromise with any form of tyranny. We know what follows the surrender to princes and powers. We who have held aloft the torch of liberty through all the dark ages of history, we are called upon to defend our heritage incorporated in the American dream of liberty. Will we respond to the call?

Bolivia Names Two Jews To Cabinet

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

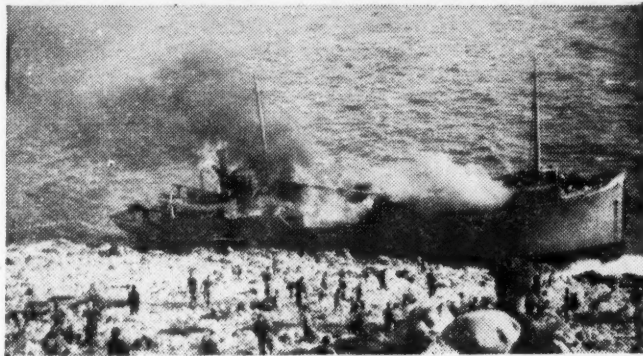

LA PAZ—The tolerance of President German Busch's government has been evidenced by a government newspaper's demand for action against anti-Semitic agitators, the granting of permission for kosher slaughter in Bolivia and the appointment of two Jews to important posts in the Labor Ministry.

President Busch has approved the nominations of Dr. Rudolf Pomerantz and Georg Friedlander as directors of the new Social Security Department of the Labor Ministry. They will have the task of organizing a system of social security for Bolivian laborers, including the establishment of milk-aid foundations and other institutions. Dr. Pomerantz is a refugee from Czechoslovakia, a former instructor of mathematics at Prague University. The Agriculture Ministry has also engaged two refugee experts.

Beta Nu Rush Party Set For August 29

The Beta Nu Sorority will hold its annual rush party Tuesday night, August 29, at the home of Miss Sylvia Forman, rush chairman. Assisting her in the arrangements will be the Misses Zelma Barnett and Goldie Lieberman. Plans already have been made for the skating party which the sorority will sponsor at 8 p. m. Wednesday, October 18, at Riverside rink. Miss Mildred Cohen is chairman.

ANKARA, Turkey—Five more ships have arrived at Fenike, a small South Anatolian port on the Mediterranean. The authorities have refused to allow the refugees to land. Meanwhile, the steamer Parita, bearing more than 500 refugees, was reported to be leaving Smyran for Constanza. Permission to land the refugees at the Black Sea port was not likely since they are not Rumanians. Three other refugee ships had been previously barred.

Meanwhile passengers from the Rim, which burned in the harbor of the Island of Rhodes were in a grave condition for want of food and clothing, although the J. D. C. granted $5,000 for their relief.

Nation Suggests Father Coughlin Take Silence Vow

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

NEW YORK—The Nation, liberal weekly, urged editorially that Father Charles E. Coughlin be "encouraged to take the Trappist vows of silence" in the interests of both America and the Church. Referring to a recent broadcast in which Coughlin disavowed responsibility for the Christian Front, openly anti-Jewish organization composed of Coughlin adherents, and in which he reiterated denials of anti-Semitism and insinuated that The Nation was a Communist periodical, the editorial declared:

"Father Coughlin has now clearly reached a stage where truth has no objective meaning for him but is simply what he chooses to believe. One of these beliefs is that he and his Front have a monopoly of Christianity and that all who oppose them are Communist, anti-Christian heretics. This is dangerous doctrine in America, where the majority of Christians do not choose to accept either political or religious instructions from a dema-gogic priest. They would be still less inclined to accept them were they to see a recent appeal for funds in Social Justice (Coughlin organ) in which the persecutions of Jesus, a piece of blasphemy ominously reminiscent of the more messianic utterances of Hitler. Our advice to Coughlin's superiors is not likely to be taken, but we suggest that it would be for the good of both America and the Church if he were encouraged to take the Trappist vows of silence forthwith."

Chemical Society To Hear Exiles' Aid To U. S. Science

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

NEW YORK—Refugees from Nazi persecution have made notable contributions to scientific development in the United States, the American Chemical Society was informed in a report by Dr. Charles A. Browne of the United States Bureau of Chemistry and Soils. The report, prepared for submission to the society's 98th meeting in Boston next month, draws a parallel between the modern flight of refugee scientists to this country and that which occurred in the 19th century.

"The influence of political disturbances on the exodus of chemists from Europe to the United States," Dr. Browne writes, "constitutes an important chapter in the history of chemistry in America. The list of European chemists who have been thus expatriated is a long one and the stories of their adventurous careers are filled with romantic interest. The (Continued on page 7)

There's one thing a fella' can like about winter. You can really enjoy going to sleep. When it's cold there's nothing like a warm bed and a huge cover. But oh me oh my, these hot summer nights. It's just toss and roll and toss, and by the time you begin to saw wood the alarm rings and you've got to start another day. So, I might as well do just that and get busy with this column.

Here's a case of high-powered ants in the pants. The Stolkin family returned Monday from a two week's traveling tour by automobile. They spent some time in Atlantic City, Washington, D. C. and many other places. Well, you'd think that would be enough traveling for anyone. It was, for all except Harold. He got up in the middle of the next night and drove to Chicago. The Northern Indiana Zone of the Refugee Resettlement Corporation has increased its quota to six units a month. This was announced by Will Welber, the chairman of the zone.

Say, a lot of you might like to know who won the oh-day at the United Hebrew Congregation picnic a week before last. The Grand prize of $25.00 was carried off by Mrs. Max Neubaur. From what I hear the affair was not only a social, but a financial success.

Julie Maurer and Fred Tuchman taking what I said about all the women at South Haven, Mich., last week very seriously, decided to trek up there and see what it's all about.

Really, more of you people ought to take in the wrestling matches each Tuesday night. I don't know how real they are, but they sure are a lot of fun. Everyone has been wanting this big German, Hans Kampfer, to get his head knocked off, but the guy's too good. I was rootin' for his scalp also, but later found he's an o. k. guy and not a Nazi. Abe Goldsmith and his wife were enjoying the grunt and groan experts perform—Tuesday, as were Paul Goldstein and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Frankel, Bob Stolkin, Frank Benjamin and Frank's father from Chicago.

O. K. Lads, here's your chance to meet a new face. Frances Unger of Chicago, dark, medium and pretty, is visiting Miriam Sicanoff for several weeks. Need more be said?

What romance, thought cold as an iceberg, is again beginning to simmer? Nope, I won't keep you in suspense. Harold Schwartz has been seeing Hannah Leah Miller quite regularly!

Saw Leona Berman with some fellow from the Windy City, Cecilia Klein and Herman Bernstein, Abe Goldsmith and his wife, and a couple with them whose gleaming countenances I didn't see, munching a bite at Sam's Subway the other night. I was determined to learn who the other couple was but before I knew they upped and left. So, whoever you are, please know that my intentions were good, anyway.

Goldman Charges British Officials Brutal To Jews

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency
GENEVA—Charges that the British administration was employing "brutal Nazi methods" in the treatment of Palestine Jews were voiced by Dr. Solomon Goldman, president of the Zionist Organization of America, upon his arrival from a two-week tour of the Holy Land. He spoke at a closed meeting of the American delegation to the Zionist Congress. He absolved the military authorities of guilt, declaring they were acting in a correct manner, but said that the civil and police authorities in Palestine were behaving "just like the Nazis."

Dr. Goldman, whom the meeting named as head of the American delegation, bolstered his charges with incidents from his own experiences during the tour. He also related how police had mercilessly beaten Jewish children in the streets of Jerusalem, how members of the Jewish Agency Executive had not been spared insulting treatment by British officials and how 300 aged religious Jews, including a number of rabbis, had been mishandled by police in the Jewish quarter of Jerusalem, "in a manner similar to that in Nazi Germany."

Dr. Goldman asserted that not only telegrams but letters were being opened by the Palestine censors because of the growing hostility to the regime there. He declared there was not a single Jew in Palestine today who was not embittered against England for her betrayal of the Balfour Declaration and that all Palestine Jewry was looking forward to a decision by the Congress on how to prevent Britain from carrying out her new White Paper policy.

25 ENTER RACE

The response to last week's announcement of a World's Fair swim was immediate and large. Twenty-five boys and girls have entered this test of swimming endurance and ability. Paced by Harold Eckman, who, at the last report, had already reach the fifth stopping point of the race at Philadelphia, the following are participating: Jules Snyder, Bob Mack, Joe Eckman, Lester Linder, Leo Klein, Nathan Nisenbaum, Bernard Snyder, Isaac Nisenbaum, Jerry Silver, Leon Gelman, Mickey Maurer, Harold Fryar, Wilbur Oakley, Earl Meredith, Barbara Ringle, Sidney Maurer, Eugene Bouslog, Charles Pierson, Bob Hollander, Richard Rans, Art Hollander, Bud Freeman, Leroy Mack, Joan Miller and Marilyn Scovell.

WIN BALL GAME

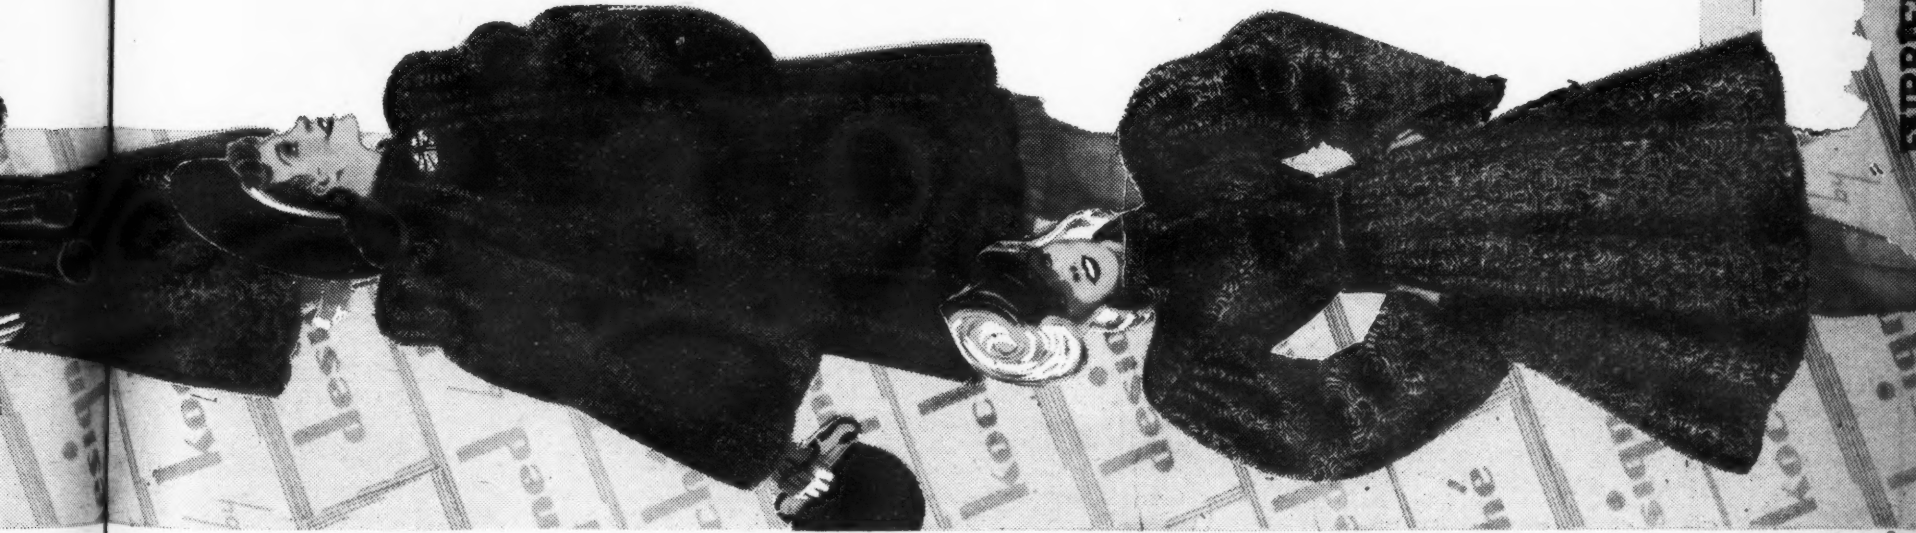

The Kirshbaum junior baseball team broke into the winning column last week by defeating the Fall Creek junior team, 13 to 11. The boys displayed plenty of hitting power and their fielding has improved constantly since the beginning of the season. Those participating in the game were Milton Miller, Stanley Miller, Chuck Klein, Sidney Maurer, Herbert Kulwin, Jerry Silver, Arthur Bartick, Edward Bartick, Wilbur Oakley, Bernard Shifrin, Stanley Rabin, Danny Rabin and Lawrence Bushkin. Arrangements are being made for another big game before the season ends.

INDIANA FUR CO.:

Dear ladies: You are cordially invited to attend the membership tea to be given by the Junior Council this Sunday afternoon and I know you will have a fine time. It is the first get-together of the new season and a large turnout is expected. You have a decided treat waiting for you, one that will make you count the days until Sunday. You see, the INDIANA FUR CO. has consented to display some of their gorgeous fur coats at the affair, and I know how thoroughly enjoyable a style show can be. Our own lovely ladies will be the models of some of the most exquisite and breath-taking models ever seen. Furs from the four corners of the earth, gathered and styled for you, will be presented. Don't forget to be there, and, by the way, be sure to scrutinize this week's INDIANA FUR CO. ad in the Post.

KEMPLER'S:

This cash sale at KEMPLER'S can't last very much longer for two very good reasons. First, their stock can't hold out forever and neither can those ridiculously low prices. Why don't some of you accept my challenge? Why don't you go to KEMPLER'S, they're on 34th and College, and see for yourself. Radios, refrigerators, irons, electric fans, portable phonographs and other numerous appliances are needed in every home. I know you'll be buying some of them from time to time, so why not now, when you can get the finest makes at lowest prices. Remember, too, you college lads and lassies, KEMPLER'S is the headquarters for those portable and table model radios and they've comforted many a heart on one of those nights in which you felt lost and lonely. They're very inexpensive.

HILLMAN'S:

We've talked of HILLMAN'S reputation, their methods of dealing with the public and the pleasant manner of their salespeople; but now, let's talk of the dresses they sell. What about them? Well, walk in there some time, wander around, and then pick a cute little number from the racks. Hold it to you, feel the material, inspect the accurate stitching, the fine and original style and note the sturdiness which guarantees long wear. Do these things and then you will know why HILLMAN'S, the exclusive shop, continues to add to their clientele, and boasts so many satisfied customers. They know that money spent at HILLMAN'S is well spent because they receive fine merchandise.

DEFINITION

"What," one refugee asked his brother refugee, "is the difference between an optimist and a pessimist?" Said the brother without a moment's hesitation: "A pessimist is a German Jew now living in the United States; an optimist is a German Jew in a Nazi concentration camp."

* * * *

EXPANSION

The American Jewish Committee will shortly open an office in Boston. Henry (Hank) Levy, member of the New York staff and a former J. T. A. man, will be in charge.

Keep your peepers peeled for "Underground," Warner Brothers anti-Nazi film soon to be put in production. A friend who has read the script thinks it's just about the hottest thing that has yet been screened in Hollywood's war on Totalitaria. Its theme is based on the secret radio broadcasts that have baffled the Nazis for years. John Garfield will have the leading role. . . . Another film to look forward to is the one depicting the tragedy of the refugee ships. Based on the "St. Louis" episode, the film is tentatively titled "Bound for Nowheres." It was produced in the Paramount studios in Paris and incorporates some actual scenes aboard the "St. Louis." The J. D. C., as this column reported last week, will use it in its campaign. Boris Smolar, J. T. A.'s chief European correspondent, had a hand in preparation of the film.

LUCK

M. J. Merlin, Atlanta merchant and father of J. T. A. employee Edith, recently returned from an extended trip abroad during which he visited many European countries and Palestine. Back in Atlanta, he invested two bits in a raffle ticket and won—a round trip to the New York World's Fair.

HEADLINE

The Jewish Daily Forward published a London story reporting Julius Streicher, pornographer, extraordinary and high priest of Nazi anti-Semitism, ill. Under this headline: "Nothing trivial, we hope."

COURTESY

The Old Masters Arts Building at the World's Fair was selling prints of the old masters reproduced on postcards. Among them were prints of German origin. A spokesman for the Anti-Nazi League called the matter to the attention of Robert Washburn, an exhibit official, explaining to him the reason for the boycott on Nazi products, with the result that the cards are now no longer for sale.

MISH-MASH

The late Abraham H. Friedland, poet and educator, was an infant prodigy. At the age of 12 he knew by heart seven tracts of the Gemorrah. . . . Joseph J. Schwartz, president of the Jewish Social Welfare Conference and former director of the Brooklyn Federation, is now assistant secretary to the J. D. C. He is acting executive director during the absence in Europe of Joseph C. Hyman. . . . Nat Belth, J. D. C. publicity director, is enjoying a two weeks' rest at his summer cottage in Peekskill, N. Y., and Fanny Alderstein, also of the J. D. C. staff, has just returned from a vacation in the Adirondacks. . . . Vic Bienstock, J. T. A. foreign news chief, returned to Europe after a month's furlough here. On the boat to New York, Vic met William Saroyan, the playwright and author. Saroyan thought Vic should be "put in a cage" as the only European correspondent not writing a book. . . . S. J. Woolf, the famous artist-interviewer of the New York Times, has sketched and interviewed nearly three hundred notables for the Times in the past dozen years. His first noted subject was the redoubtable G. B. Shaw, who at first wanted to charge Woolf $3,750 an hour for posing as an artist's model. . . . The American Hebrew recently put out a mystery issue. The mystery was to find an article by Arthur T. Weil on Senator Robert Reynolds, which was advertised on the cover but was nowhere to be seen on the inside. . . . Did you know that the first swastika was the Hebrew letter "aleph," known as the Big Aleph. . . . Books you'll want to read when they come out next month: "Tommy Gallagher—American Storm Trooper," by James T. Farrell, and "You're Next—Anti-Semitism in the United States," by Heywood Brown and George Britt, authors of the well-known "Christians Only" of several years back.

Mrs. Henry Rothschild and son Leonard of Franklin, Ind., have returned home after spending two weeks in New York City. While there they visited Arv Rothschild, formerly of this city.

Fight Nazis In Raids
By Jewish Telegraphic Agency
VIENNA—Two practice air-raid "black-outs" scheduled by the Nazi authorities have been cancelled after opponents of the regime had utilized a recent "black-out" to put up anti-Nazi posters and scatter leaflets. Huge red posters appeared in the streets bearing the inscriptions, "Gone is the Jew; we are in a stew!" Thousands of illegal leaflets were also found strewn about the streets when Vienna's lights were turned on again.

Refugee Factories Give 38,000 Jobs, Survey Reveals

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency
GENEVA—New industries established by refugees in four nations have given employment to approximately 38,000 persons, it was revealed in a report submitted to a session of the administrative committee of the World Jewish Congress. The report, embodying the results of a detailed investigation, refutes the contention that refugees are a liability to countries which admit them.

The report discloses that 15,000 English workers have been removed from the ranks of the unemployed in enterprises established by refugees in Britain. Similarly, France has seen 10,000 unemployed obtain jobs in undertakings founded by exiles; Holland another 10,000 and Belgium 3,000. Smaller nations, such as the Scandinavian and the Baltic states, have had similar experiences.

In the majority of cases, the enterprises established by the refugees are of a type never before developed in the respective countries. France, for example, now has a number of companies producing textile articles for export, fur, glassware, artificial flowers and fruit juices. Raw materials from French colonies are used in the production of the goods. Belgian records show that 105 large industrial firms have been established by the refugees. For the most part, they are in the metallurgical, chemical and electrical fields. Three hundred enterprises were founded by refugees in Holland.

Misses Rose and Ruth Klein have left on a motor trip to Yellowstone National Park; Denver, Col.; Salt Lake City, Utah, and other western points. They will return in ten days.

Mrs. Sam Mandell of Chicago, formerly of Indianapolis, is in New York to attend the wedding of her sister-in-law, Miss Sara Mandell, to Abraham Beitel. While there she also will visit the World's Fair.

CHEMICAL SOCIETY

name of Priestley is the most famous one upon the list of chemists who came to America to escape persecution. The disturbances in Germany following the troubles of 1848 brought a large number of German chemists to America whose contributions had much to do with the advancement of chemistry in the United States before the Civil War. A modern parallel of this movement is found in the exodus of chemists and other scientists from Germany to the United States as a result of the recent persecutions by the national socialistic government."

Our Film Folk of HOLLYWOOD

By HELEN ZIGMOND

HOLLYWOOD—Leon Schlesinger, producer of "Merrie Melodie" cartoons reminds me somehow of "Diamond" Jim Brady . . . not that he wears flashy rocks . . . it's his jovial air, his radiant joy of living.

He came to Hollywood in 1922 . . . supplied art titles to film producers . . . got interested in cartoons through Jack Warner's suggestion to parody hit tunes. In 1930, with a staff of 36, he made the first "Looney Tune." . . . Now employs more than 200 people. His studio is perhaps the only one in Hollywood where everybody knows the boss, and the boss knows everybody, down to the least important. He makes a practice of handing out the salary checks personally and speaking with each employee.

His studio has just discovered a new method of producing extraordinarily beautiful backgrounds by use of oils instead of water colors. The pride of his pen and ink actors is Porky, the stuttering pig.

Schlesinger is a business man, not an artist . . . says the only line he can draw is under a column of figures. Claims one Hollywood record . . . is married 30 years to the same wife!

A torrid ruby without a setting is Hedy LaMarr. Having zoomed to stardom in an equatorial atmosphere, she's henceforth typed to the exotic. "Lady of the Tropics," her current vehicle, is appropriate enough, but somehow she's become too "civilized" to be primitive. She's surpassingly beautiful, but acting honors go to Joseph Schildkraut, the villain . . . a polished Oriental villain, so much in character that we looked twice at the credit sheet to check his identity. It's time producers gave more serious consideration to this actor . . . having long ago left behind his juvenile leads, he is more and more coming into the Muni class for characterizations, plays as many different people as he plays parts.

Maxie Rosenbloom appeared on the set the other day wearing goggles. When asked why the specs, he answered, "I got antagonism!"

The last song written by the team of Gordon and Revel before they parted was "This Is the Beginning of the End" . . . they've (Continued on page 8)

The Editor's Chair:

If a scientific survey were to be made of the young Jewish girls of Indianapolis, it is almost certain that the results would show that something is wrong with our maidens. But we don't need a survey or scientists to prove the point. We know that something is wrong with these young persons of the female sex of the Jewish religion in our city.

Several years ago a group of the more eligible young men decided to form a bachelors' club. A harmless project, the club went as far as the planning of a constitution, but never progressed beyond that first meeting. Club or no club, what I am trying to show is that of all the men who were considered for membership (and there were at least 25) practically none has since married, although two full years have passed.

Two years may be just a couple of summers and winters to a youngster, but to those young men whose scalps are becoming as bare as a Nazi's dinner table, two years make the difference between a young man and an "a. k."

And truth to tell, just look about you. See how many eligible young men there are running loose in Indianapolis. It seems to me that my thesis is proved. Something must be wrong with our young maidens.

Maybe what we need is a shadchun. We could import one for about six months, and then after he had cleaned up the situation, we could send him on his way to greener pastures.

Seriously, it really is a shame. As long as a young man is unmarried he cannot in reality assume his proper position in the community. He is just as likely to attend a meeting, as he is to be dating his girl friend, and what is that for dependability. But married, that is different. If a meeting is being held, he attends, because that is practically the only way he can get out of the house without his wife. Or if he has a baby, a meeting is a godsend, because it offers him a few hours of comparative quiet, with only the more pyrotechnic speeches of other members to disturb him.

It wouldn't be so bad, if next year we could write another "chair" and say that this one or that one has become engaged, and this one is comfortably married. But it won't be so. Our young bachelors are bachelors with a vengeance.

Well, maybe we'll have a war soon.

Hillel at Indiana Indispensable

HILLEL at Indiana U. begins with the opening of the coming school term its second year. In the short space of twelve months, Hillel has earned a high place in the structure of State Jewish organizations.

At Bloomington as at other large institutions, it was the problem of the coming Jewish leaders that had called into being the first foundation at the University of Illinois, and then later at ten other institutions of learning. Any student at our higher institutions of learning of pre-Hillel days knew that what should have been the flower of Jewish youth often became estranged from Jewish life because in four of their most formative years they were far removed from practically all Jewish contact.

It is reassuring to Jewish parents of Indiana to know that our State University has a Hillel Foundation. Until the Foundation was organized at Bloomington, Indianians were no more familiar with its work than the news which appeared in the Anglo-Jewish press or what they heard from Champaign, Ill., or Columbus, Ohio.

But one short year has changed all that. Under the benign leadership of Rabbi Martin Perley, the Indiana Hillel has won the affection and regard of Indiana Jewry. Like a railroad station, the Hillel House at Bloomington is a thriving, busy, leaving and arriving station. More activities go on in Hillel in one week than most Jewish organizations can show in a full year.

And most significant of all is the fact that all Jewish students on the campus have been eager and willing participants in Hillel activity.

Sympathy for Presidents, Workers

WITH summer almost over, Jewish organizations are beginning to clear the fields for the year's activities. Indianapolis and Indiana have seemed almost like another city and another State during the past few months, with practically no meetings, and practically no drives for members or campaigns for funds.

But all vacations must end. From now until the High Holidays plans will be laid for an intense drive on the time and energies of Indiana Jewry. There will be no letup for nine months, until with the coming of May near-crazed presidents are relieved of their burdens with sighs, and the activity-drunk members swoon with exhaustion.

Our sympathies go out to both groups.

Gutstadt Letter to Guild Strikers Removes Lodge From Strikebreaker List—At the conclusion of the Ludwig articles, the Hearstlings contracted for a series on "I Escaped from a Nazi Camp." In connection with the latter articles, the Hearst management prevailed on the Anti-Defamation League, subsidiary of B'nai B'rith, to circularize its membership in Chicago urging them to purchase copies of the struck paper and read the series.

Under date of August 7, such a letter was sent out over the signature of Richard E. Gutstadt, director. The letter brought a storm of protest from rank and file and leaders of B'nai B'rith in Chicago and from Jewish and Christian leaders throughout the city. Angry protests are still pouring in.

Following a Guild conference with Mr. Gutstadt, he wrote this letter to the Guild strikers:

"My record with organized labor is well known. Having been away from Chicago for over a month and upon my return not having had my attention called to the continuance of the Guild strike against the Hearst newspapers, I had no idea that the men were still out.

"Had I realized that that was the situation, I doubt whether I would have been interested in the articles 'I Escaped from a Nazi Camp,' running serially in the Evening American, which we exploited, regardless of what values are imputed to those articles."

Mr. Gutstadt has also directed a letter to all lodges and auxiliaries of the order which will be read at future meetings, pointing out that the original letter was sent without knowledge of the strike and that the B'nai B'rith was in no sense knowingly acting as a strikebreaker for Hearst.

Dr. Asher Isaacs Asks "But if There Isn't," In Reply to an Editorial Statement That Roosevelt has Jewish Blood—Typical of the logic employed by agitators is this portion of a vicious editorial appearing in the Catholic Union and Times: "It is said that there is Jewish blood in the Roosevelt family. If this be true, several things in connection with the family are easily apprehended. On the supposition that the blood of Israel runs in the Roosevelt veins we can easily understand the Roosevelt sympathy for Jews and Communists. We can understand, too, why it is that there are so many Jewish office-holders and other employees in Washington. We can also comprehend the significance of the strong antagonism of the President to Nazi Germany and his persistent efforts to align this country with England and France in a possible war against the protagonists of totalitarianism. And finally we can see in it the reason for Elliott Roosevelt's bitter tirade against Father Coughlin." The editor starts with a lie and draws the conclusions he wants. What if the Roosevelt family does not have Jewish blood? The editor ignores this truth because it would defeat his purpose. Since he explains Roosevelt's championship of decency on Jewish blood of which he (the editor) disapproves, he indicates that he approves of the Nazis and all they represent. This shows him to be badly misinformed and in need of a blood transfusion—of Jewish blood—to take care of a sick soul.

Pittsburgh Priest Asks Catholics to Disavow Hatred—Let me talk, for a moment, just to you Catholics who may be listening. When we bore the brunt of intolerance, our Jewish brothers stood shoulder to shoulder with us, joined by hosts of Protestants. We had won the respect of all thinking people by our own tolerance and broadness. Tolerance, of course, concerning people, not error.

Let us prove that those who trusted us were not wrong. We must not be false to them. More important we must not be false to ourselves. I ask you for a moment to analyze your feeling toward the Jew. If as the result of propaganda, you are against him, Reflect! Is there anything of hatred in your attitude? If there is, you are committing mortal sin, whether you realize it or not. You can't hate a group any more than you can hate a person. All men are our brothers. God made them all. He destined them all for salvation. He died to save them all. He loves them. You are destroying God's love in your heart if you harbor intolerance there.

Dushkin, Kaplan Return to U. S. Regretted—Departure of Dr. Alexander Dushkin and Prof. Mordecai Kaplan, American Jewish educators, who served with institutions here, has brought forth expressions of regret. It is unfortunate that Palestine is unable permanently to retain prominent American Zionists, said the English-language weekly, Palestine Review, in commenting on their departure.

The Review revealed that Dr. Dushkin, former director of Jewish education in Chicago, had been nominated for the post of director of Jewish education in Palestine, but owing to party considerations alone, had not been appointed. Now Dr. Dushkin has undertaken an important educational project in New York, it was stated.

Regarding Prof. Kaplan, who headed the new Educational Department of the Hebrew University while on leave from the Jewish Theological Seminary of New York, the periodical stated: "He has a real message for the Yishub and it is to be hoped that he will return at an early date. It is very likely that if there were more American Jews in Palestine, more would come."

been collaborating partners since 1933. Paul Muni is living at the studio during his current chore . . . after dinner he returns to the set and rehearses all alone the next day's scenes for "We Are Not Alone." Bert Lehr thinks the reason business has fallen off that the picture houses is that everyone HAS a set of dishes!

Independent producer Phil Goldstone is one of Hollywood's most charitable persons. Recently he deeded $250,000 worth of properties to the Duarte Consumptive Home in a gesture to help the institution pay off the mortgages.

The Winchellism, "flickers," dates back to an old vaude act done by Weber and Fields. They called it the Flickerscope, a take-off on the crudeness of movies in the 1890's.

Carl Laemmle was once employed as a farm hand in Iowa, but when told to feed the pigs he quit the job.

Two favorite quadrupeds in the Hollywood endurance race are Chaplin's "Dictator" and Selznick's "Gone With the Wind." Latter, before the cameras, is forging ahead by a neck, while "Dictator" shied at the lenses and returned to the weights.

A nutterger is a tid-bit at the local drive-in stands. Gummo Marx describes it: "A nutterger consists of a loaf of bread cut in two, inside of which is placed a hamburger, nuts, tomato, lettuce, picallili, bacon, cheese, cole slaw, and any other odds and ends that happen to be lying around. It takes two men to carry it to your table. Only two people living could wrap their mouths around it—Joe E. Brown and Martha Raye!"

Rose Tire Celebrating Lucky 13th Anniversary

"The 'Lucky 13th' Anniversary Sale is what Art Rose, president and general manager, and Joe Rothbard, vice president and store manager, of the Rose Tire Company, 930 North Meridian street, are calling this year's anniversary of the company.

Founded in 1926 in a store that could be placed in a corner of the present establishment, the business has shown consistent growth and progress throughout the years, today ranking as one of the largest independent institutions of its kind in the country. The foundation stones of the business, according to Mr. Rose, are quality merchandise, fair prices, personal service and customer satisfaction. "Our policy," Mr. Rose stated, "is not only to give good values but to keep the customer satisfied by standing back of all merchandise that we sell."

Motorists are invited to visit the store and browse around the counters. There are many unadvertised specials priced exceptionally low.
